Decorations with dried flowers

Instructions No. 2113

Difficulty: Beginner

Working time: 3 Hours

For many, dried flowers are an indispensable decorative element. But why? Dried flowers look permanently beautiful and do not wither. They can be tied into a wreath or simply draped in a vase and make a beautiful decoration. Try it out.

Metal ring with dried flowers

Choose different dried flowers that you like best. Take individual stems of the chosen flowers, shorten them to the desired length and wrap them into approx. 8 small bundles.
Place the metal ring in front of you. Attach the first bundle of flowers to the top of the ring with winding wire. The tied stems should point downwards. The next bundle is fixed just below the first bundle on its stem, also with wrapping wire. Proceed in the same way with all the other bundles.
Finally, attach some ribbons to the last bundle. The ribbons will hide the winding wire used for the last bundle.

Illuminated glass dome with dried flowers

This idea can be implemented quickly and looks simply beautiful.
Choose different dried flowers according to your personal taste and cut them to the right length.
Wrap them into a small bunch and fix them with hot glue on the base of the glass dome. Place some dried flowers on the base and also fix them with hot glue.
Finally, place the LED light chain around the dried flowers. Some spots can be fixed with hot glue if necessary. The battery compartment can be hidden behind the bunch of flowers and fixed with glue.
Just place the glass dome on the plate and you have a magical decoration.

Cardboard letter with dried flowers

This idea is also very easy to make and looks great afterwards.
Choose dried flowers according to your taste and shorten the stems. Fix them to the cardboard letter with hot glue.
You can also use this method to create all the other letters or even a whole word.
