A decorated magazine rack not only keeps your documents tidy, but also attracts everyone's attention. Let yourself be inspired and transform a simple object into an artistic accessory!

Design your own individual magazine rack: a creative guide

Preparation: The primer

Start by priming the magazine rack in a color of your choice. Choose a color that harmonizes with your interior design concept or creates an eye-catching highlight in your room. Apply the paint evenly and allow the magazine rack to dry completely before proceeding to the next step. This primer ensures that the subsequent colors adhere well and can develop their full luminosity.

Using the template: Circles and spots

Print out our free template, which has been specially designed for this project. This template contains circles and spots that serve as the basis for your design. Carefully transfer these elements to the primed magazine rack. You can now use handcraft paint to color in the circles and spots. Make sure to achieve clean edges to achieve a professional look. Allow the paint to dry well before continuing.

Additions: Branches and details

Now comes the creative part! Transfer the branches to the stand-up collector and color them in with handcraft paint as well. For additional details, you can use the back of your paintbrush to print small dots on the stand-up collector. Wait again until the colors are completely dry.

Add accents: Tracing lines

Highlight the branches in particular by tracing the lines with a black marker. This creates high-contrast accents that give your stand-up collector an even more artistic look.

Finishing touch: sealing your artwork

To protect your artwork, apply the VBS Acrylic varnish. Once dry, this varnish forms a transparent, resistant coating that protects the colors from abrasion and moisture. This keeps your magazine rack beautiful for a long time and maintains its freshly designed look. Don't forget to allow the paint to dry thoroughly before using the magazine rack.

Now you can enjoy how your customized magazine rack not only keeps things tidy, but is also a great eye-catcher in your room. Let your creativity run wild and perhaps design several for even more order and beauty!
