Wall decoration with rattan wickerwork

Instructions No. 2454

Difficulty: Beginner

Working time: 3 Hours

The Urban Jungle wall decoration is an ingenious very natural looking planter that they can easily create themselves.

And this is how it is done:

The basis for the planter is a fermenting basket and rattan wickerwork, which is also called Viennese wickerwork.

The rattan wickerwork is sewn on. Place it on top of the proofing basket and cut it so that it covers half of the opening and protrudes about 1 cm at a time.

Drill holes through the proofing basket at even intervals with the awl for sewing on. Thread bamboo twine and use it to sew the weave to the basket. Now glue the protruding rattan braid to the sides of the basket with hot glue.

Attach the picture eyelets to the back wall of the homemade planter with the corresponding hardware pins. Using hot glue, finish by decorating it with decorative crochet ribbon. Place small plant pots inside and hang your Urban Jungle decoration!
